THROWBACK THURSDAY

Fox Theatre

Then

COURTESY OF NEVILLE PUBLIC MUSEUM OF BROWN COUNTY

Crowds gather outside of the Fox Theatre on Washington Street in 1931. Since its opening in 1930 as one of seven vaudeville and movie houses in the area, the Fox underwent several changes, including a bankruptcy in 1933 that led to the theater's operation under a new name, the Bay. It was later converted into a movie multiplex.

Now

JIM MATTHEWS/PRESS-GAZETTE MEDIA

The former Fox Theatre was rechristened the Meyer Theatre after a full renovation in 1998.

» To see more then-and-now photos, go to www.greenbaypressgazette.com.